Panel 1: International carbon market cooperation – ten years and counting

By working together, emissions trading systems can drive more ambitious, cost-effective emissions reductions. However, in a decentralized carbon markets world, cooperation can take many forms. This panel will discuss efforts at linking, such as the Western Climate Initiative in North America, but also other forms of collaboration, which are now emerging at all levels of government that can lay the ground work to future and larger markets.

- Beatriz Yordi, Director of European and International Carbon Markets, DG Climate Action, European Commission
- Lois New, Director of the Office of Climate Change, Department of Environmental Conservation, New York State
- Il-Young OH, Director of Climate Change Policy Division, Ministry of Strategy and Finance, Republic of Korea
- Venkata Ramana Putti, Program Manager of the Climate and Carbon Finance Unit, World Bank
- Mykola Kuzio, Deputy Minister on European Integration, Ministry of Ecology and Natural Resources, Ukraine

Chair: ICAP Co-Chair Jean-Yves Benoit, Director of the Carbon Market, Ministry of Sustainable Development, Environment and Fight Against Climate Change, Québec

11.30 a.m. – 12.30 p.m. Panel 2: Emission trading and long term climate strategies – transition towards a low carbon world

As the signatories to the Paris Agreement work to implement their Nationally Determined Contributions, many jurisdictions have opted to implement an ETS in their climate policy mix as a means to meet their mitigation targets. The panel will discuss the different roles a carbon pricing signal can play in governments' long-term efforts to transition to a low-carbon economy.

- Marcel Beukeboom, Climate Envoy, the Netherlands
- Dirk Forrister, CEO and President, International Emissions Trading Association (IETA)
- Qian Guoqiang, Deputy General Manager, SinoCarbon Innovation & Investment Co. Ltd., China
- Mary Jane Coombs, Manager in the Cap-and-Trade Program, California Air Resources Board

Chair: ICAP Co-Chair Marc Allessie, Director of the Dutch Emissions Authority, the Netherlands
